idgaf if this is wrong place, this is not first time, but since this one is related to video game i can ask here. . My friend has a Wii and he installed some wad files and i installed some others. for a long time after he reinstalled my version he played them first and then he played with his version. and he also did it to our other friend and my friend's other friend. So we thought that it could be because we played our wads first but it could also be a problem with the wad itself. my version of Banjo is here ( I am not sure if it is what your friend has but my wad seems to be the most recent one ) . so if you have a Wii WAD or download it and then test it and you think that your friend might be a victim then just type the link on your Wii with Internet browser and save it and then give it to him with Internet browser i dont know if this is a file format problem or what but its really weird. mike if you want to give this answer the answer is that you could have installed different version of wads into your wii. i know that there is no answer to this problem if you had an anti-virus program but we didn't use any because he has a free virus removal software which he is pretty sure that is free of charge and that's what he used. i dont know if this is a file format problem or what but its really weird. Banjo Kazooie Recoded (v11) wad for Nintendo Wii released by the Squaresoft company. Ever since Banjo Kazooie DS was released on the Nintendo DS, I have been trying to find the wad file. wad for comes in a few formats. the one that I am using is the VC format. It requires a forwarder. I found this . June 30, 2013 9:32 AM | Banjo Kazooie Recoded wad for Nintendo Wii. Zip file (.zip) - 97 MB. To install wad, follow steps below: Run this. 54b84cb42d
